

I feel that one entity owning 35% of the media would be dangerous. Concentration of media sources is a clear threat to the democratic process. Information, as well as wealth, is power. While some may point to benefits, it is a clear limitation of information. Democracy depends on access to information. You represent the public interests of the American public as a whole. Compromising public access to information is a violation of your mandate.